- An Exhibition Plus project designed by Mark Magidson

- A design and build contract, value approx £35k

Working for our client, English Heritage, we tackled the highly political project that was designed to win the hearts and minds of the local people and organisations of Carlisle.

We chose a newspaper format and tackled head on, some of the pertinent questions raised by friends and critics alike of the archaeological dig. We chose a “behind the scenes look” of an archaeologists store to give people a flavour of the range of artifacts kept in the care of English Heritage. This temporary exhibition was such a success that it is still on display, some 3 years later.

Dexion shelving and builders service lamps were used to give the feel for a storage behind the seen, look. It was also rather useful with our limited budget.
